5/10/06 Kirkland

Martin R and Harry updated the committee on the project and outlined future plans for trial trenches on one or two sites which it is hoped might provide dating evidence.

It is proposed that a request will be sent to North Pennines Archaeology for a costing and a project design for an archaeological evaluation to include two weeks field work, led by professional archaeologists, recording and report writing. The field work would provide training for members and other volunteers. The suggested date is mid July 2007.

Funding: Awards for All had indicated that they could be approached again and an application to CWAAS could be considered. Martin R advised the committee that dating finds would be expensive.
